

MILL OWNERS WILL MEET EMPLOYEES

Manufacturers are Willing to Hear Plan of Weavers

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 2.—Following the sending of the letter of the Weavers' Union to the manufacturers, the Manufacturers' association held a meeting yesterday and sent a favorable reply which was received last night at an executive board meeting of the Weavers' Union.

The board considered the reply and voted to offer a plan to the manufacturers, and it was stated that the weavers considered it a better plan than the grading system. This plan was mailed to the secretary of the Manufacturers' association last evening after the meeting, but its wording was not divulged.

There is a feeling that the progress made in the last 24 hours in the strike situation may result in a conference between the weavers and the manufacturers, which will end in an agreement that will end the strike.

"WHITEY" LEWIS IS CAPTURED

Second of the Alleged Slayers of Rosenthal Arrested in the Catskills Mountains

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—"Whitey" Lewis, otherwise known as Frank Miller, one of the four men wanted by the police as the actual murderers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was arrested in the Catskill mountains this afternoon and late tonight was taken to Kingston, N. Y., to be lodged in the county jail.

This was announced tonight at police headquarters here by Inspector Edward P. Hughes, who said that three of his detectives had found Lewis at Fleischmann's, a summer resort, a few miles from Kingston.

After scouring the region for nearly two weeks the detectives found Lewis working on a farm, Inspector Hughes said, and today arrested him as he was to board a train at Fleischmann's and make his escape.

The prisoner will be brought to New York on an early train tomorrow morning.

It was reported at police headquarters tonight that Louis Marks, alias "Lefty Louis" and Harry Hlow, with, alias "Gyp the Blood," two of the alleged murderers still at large, had been tracked to the same vicinity and that their arrest would soon be made.

The news that one of the fugitives had been trapped was received with great elation at Police headquarters tonight because of the criticism that has been directed toward the department for its failure to arrest any of the men charged with the actual killing of the gambler.

With the arrest of "Lefty Louis" the police have now in custody two of the four alleged assassins, the other being "Dago" Frank Chappel, who is now in the Tombs, and a fellow prisoner of Police Lieut. Charles H. Becker, who is charged with instigating the gun men to kill Rosenthal in order to stop his exposures of alleged blackmail levied by the police upon gamblers.

Following out this policy of a two-fold prosecution, Dist. Atty. Whitman today bent his efforts to weaving closer around Becker the web of evidence by which he hopes to convict him of being the man who instigated the murder of Rosenthal. He called before the Grand Jury John W. Hart, Becker's attorney, and through him established the fact, he said, that while Rose was a fugitive from justice, Becker sent Hart to him to get an affidavit clearing the police officer from the charge that he was a partner in the gambling establishment of Rosenthal.

This was on the night after the murder, and according to Rose's story Hart came to him at his hiding place on Riverside Drive, after he had telephoned Becker to know if he would be protected for his part in the murder plot.

Rose declared to the district attorney that he was in an almost hysterical condition that day on account of his fear of arrest and had telephoned Becker to know if he would be protected for his part in the murder plot.

FREIGHT TRAINS WILL HAVE A FULL CREW

Commissions of Massachusetts Will Issue Orders To That Effect

Massachusetts trainmen, who have been fighting for years to have the railroads compelled to equip long freight trains with "full crews," are destined to reap the full fruits of their labors in the immediate future.

It was given out on Thursday that the Massachusetts commissioners will shortly issue an order to the railroads to equip freights in that state with full crews.

It was stated by an official who should know that the railroad commission's order will cover the full crew bill which passed the legislature this year but was vetoed by the Governor.

The bill provided for the equipment of all freight trains of 30 cars or over with three brakemen instead of two.

The informant said the order will be sent out in about ten days. He stated, however, that the order may provide for full crews on trains of 37 cars or over instead of 30.

Governor Boss, in his veto of the "full crew" bill, stated that he felt the matter should be left to a "public utilities" board. He hoped to secure legislation providing for the creation of such a board, but the legislature turned him down.

In view of this, it is understood the Governor is agreeable to a "full crew" order being issued by the railroad commission.

The latter body took up this matter as the result of a vote passed by the Senate after the legislature had refused to pass the "full crew" bill over the veto of the Governor, asking that the railroad commission make regulations governing the equipment of freight trains with crews.

BEST SPORTING NEWS AND NOTES

AT PLAYGROUNDS

In spite of the fact that it rained yesterday morning, the play grounds dried up enough in the afternoon to permit the contests to be run for the girls. There were about seventy-five entries and had the weather been more promising the entries would have reached one hundred.

The Farragut defenders were very much in prominence and were easy winners. They added 47 points to their credit. Pearl Craig made 13 of these points herself which helped somewhat. Sarah Rozavsky of the same school also did good work, making 14 points.

Mildred Adams thought she would show the girls what she could do, and she did. She was field champion of the day, having gained 22 points. Her jump of 10 ft. 3 1/2 in. in the running broad jump is a record for the Senior B Division. This is 6 inches better than the old record.

Ellen Hennessey of the Farragut School established a new record of 6 ft. 5 in. in the standing broad jump for the Senior A Division. This is a very good record.

The standing of the schools is as follows:

Whipple—242 points.

Senior B—M. Adams—22 points.

Philippine Islanders Bid Fair to Replace Cock Fighting With the National Game.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Baseball is in a fair way to displace cock fighting and sports of a similar nature in the Philippines, according to William Pierce Forsuch, inspector in the department of public speaking at the University of Chicago, who returned today from the islands, where he lectured before the Teachers' Assembly of Baguio.

"The progress of baseball among the natives is surprising," said Mr. Forsuch. "It is not only interesting to the boys who play, but is commanding the attention of large crowds who are deserting the cock pits for the diamond. Everybody likes it."

MARQUARD FINED $25

Giants' Star Pitcher Penalized for Pitching for an Outside Nine

CINCINNATI, Aug. 1.—"Rube" Marquard, star pitcher of the New York Giants, was fined $25 today by the National Baseball commission for pitching one inning for the Port Chester, N. Y., independent baseball team.

In so doing, although not in violation of the commission's ruling that he violated its ruling that no National agreement player can play with or against outside clubs during the contract period. Marquard had tele-

Four Crack Washington Players Who Are Pushing Senators Pennantward And Scene in Recent Game

Washington, Aug. 2.—"Pennantitis" is epidemic here. Never before in the history of the national game—and the capital has had ball teams since 1865—have the people of Washington been so worked up as they are just now over the remarkable and surprising showing the Senators have made during the present season. When the team astonished the baseball world by winning seventeen straight games the local fans lost their heads. Then came the slump and much depression. Next the Senators started on another winning streak. At present they are playing pennant winning ball and are not very far behind in the race for first place. Critics are now beginning to figure the Senators in the world's series this fall. Manager Clark Griffith has certainly worked wonders with the team. The pitching staff, which at the start has been bolstered up and is now strong. Walter Johnson is twirling better ball than he ever did. Gandil, whom Griffith purchased from Montreal, has developed into a great first sacker and has added great strength to the Senators. Eddie Foster, who was thought not good enough for New York, is playing a wonderful game at third base. Catcher Henry is doing splendid work at the receiving end. Picture shows close play at third base in recent New York-Washington game.

graphed for permission to attend the game and considered the commission's consent sufficient to pitch one inning.

MAGUIRE ARRIVES HOME

North Attleboro Runner Welcomed From Stockholm Trip

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Aug. 1.—Hugh Maguire, the Olympic runner, arrived in North Attleboro this evening from his trip to Stockholm. Maguire was met at the railroad station by a large party of friends and given a warm reception.

He said that he had had a fine trip and was treated in an excellent manner everywhere. He was glad to get home, however. George A. Chisholm, the local hurdler, will return home later.

Billiards.

The French ascribe the invention of the game of billiards to one Hendrick Devigne, an artist, about the year 1571. The game is mentioned by Spencer about 1591, and by Shakespeare in 1607. Cotton, in his "Complete Gamester," 1674, gives a very full account of the game. It will not do, however, to be too emphatic in asserting the modern origin of the popular game, for there are fairly good reasons for thinking that it was known as far back as the age of the Pharaohs of old Egypt. It is claimed by good authorities that the men of old Pompeii played a game very similar to our modern billiards. Many of our modern "inventions" are merely revivals.

AT OLD ORCHARD

Alliance Convention Will Be Held August 2 to 12th.

The Alliance Convention at Old Orchard Beach this year promises the usual attractive features. In the first place the crowd is usually the chief attraction and numerous visitors are expected from all parts of the country. The delightful auditorium in the grove is a cool and pleasant meeting place, and when the weather is favorable services are held there under the pines with the ocean and mountain breezes relieving the oppressive heat of the season. The program announces a number of distinguished speakers. Dr. Simpson will have charge of the services and be assisted by a strong committee of old workers, including Messrs. Jeffrey, Funk, Chase, Fraser, Orr, Franklin and others. Rev. Charles Ingalls of England and Rev. G. N. Eldridge of Los Angeles, Cal., will be the chief evangelistic preachers and address several of the evening exercises. Rev. F. W. Farr of Philadelphia, Principal Ballard of Nyack, Principal Stevens also of Nyack, and Dr. Simpson will lead morning Bible studies from 8:30 until the noon hour. There will be an intensely interesting Missionary Rally from 2 to 4 daily under the direction of Dr. Robert Glover of China, with an unusually strong and able force of missionaries from many fields, including Messrs. Hinkey, Oldfield and Hoykendall of China, Mr. Allison and Miss Kennedy of Africa, Miss Paton of India, Miss Barnes of Japan, etc. The large Children's Tent will be a center of attraction at five o'clock every afternoon, where Mrs. Forrest of Atlanta, Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Tilden, Miss Shepardson and others, assisted by the missionaries, will hold the attention of the crowd of little ones.

One of the most striking services is the stereoscopic views every evening representing striking scenes and missionary incidents from many foreign lands.

There will be a daily service for Divine Healing, led by Miss Draper, Miss Lindenberger, Mr. Stevens and others at five o'clock. These meetings are always thronged and reach a climax on the closing Saturday when hundreds of testimonies are given and a large amount of service is held in the Tabernacle.

The prominent feature of the Convention is always the missionary offering on the closing Sunday. The annual missionary sermon will be preached by Mr. Simpson in the morning, Aug. 11, with several missionary addresses in the afternoon and the offering will follow both services.

The large Beach Meeting is held every afternoon and evening, below the depot, under the direction of Messrs. Jeffrey and Forrest and a company of evangelists and singers. The song service of the convention will be one of the features of the program. Professor Rossignol, leader of the musical department at the Nyack schools, assisted by Miss Pierce, pianist, of Worcester; Mr. McDowell, cornetist, and his wife, who is also a gifted pianist, will have charge of the service of song.

Ample accommodations are provided at extremely reasonable prices. Rev. H. H. Chase, resident superintendent, will give any information and make arrangements for the accommodation of guests.

CEMENTPRESIDENT OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED OF NOMINATION

Chairman Root Asserts Taft's Title to Nomination as Clear and Unimpeachable as That of Any Candidate Since Political Conventions Began.

WASHINGTON, August 1.—President Taft was formally notified on Thursday of his nomination by the National Republican Convention at Chicago.

Surrounded by his family and friends in the historic East room of the White House the President received from Senator Root, chairman of the committee of notification, his first official notification of the convention's action.

"Your title to the nomination is as clear and unimpeachable as the title of any candidate since political conventions began," said Senator Root at the conclusion of his address.

Surrounded by the members of the committee and a hundred or so invited guests, the chairman of the convention in a brief speech delivered the official announcement.

"The Committee of Notification," said Senator Root, "here present, has the honor to advise you formally that on the 22d day of June, last, you were regularly and duly nominated by the National Convention of the Republican party, to be the Republican candidate for President for the term beginning March 4, 1913.

"For the second time in the history of the Republican party a part of the delegates have refused to be bound by the action of the convention. Now, as on the former occasion, the irremediable minority declares its intention to support either your Democratic opponent, or a third candidate. The reason assigned for this course is dissatisfaction with the decision of certain quarters in the making up of the temporary roll of the convention. Those contests were decided by the tribunal upon which the law that has governed the Republican party for more than 40 years imposed the duty of deciding such contests.

Decision Just.

"So long as those decisions were made honestly and in good faith all persons were bound to accept them as conclusive in the making up of the temporary roll of the convention, and neither in the facts and arguments produced before the National Committee, the committee on credentials and the convention itself, nor otherwise, does there appear just ground for impeaching the honesty and good faith of the committee's decisions. Both the making up of the temporary roll, and the rights accorded to the persons upon that roll, whose seats were in accordance with the long established and unquestioned rules of law governing the party, and founded upon justice and common-sense. Your title to the nomination is as clear and unimpeachable as the title of any candidate of any party since political conventions began.

"Your selection has a broader basis than a mere expression of choice between different party leaders representing the same ideas. You have been nominated because you stand pre-eminently for certain fixed and essential principles which the Republican party maintains."

Taft Accepts.

"I accept the nomination," replied

President Taft in beginning his speech of acceptance. "I accept it as an expression of confidence that in a second administration I will serve the public well."

Although Mr. Taft defined in detail the issues of the campaign as he saw them he reserved the right to amplify his statement in a letter as the campaign develops.

The supreme issue that confronts the voters, the President declared, was that of the maintenance of the Nation's institutions and the preservation of the Constitution, threatened, he said, on the one hand by the Democratic party and on the other hand by those Republicans who had left the party to try their fortunes in a new one.

Next in importance Mr. Taft placed the tariff. In the proposals of the Democrats for reductions in the present schedules, he said, lay danger of business depression and hard times. The Republican principle of revision only where scientific investigations shows it necessary, marked the straight road to continued prosperity and commercial peace.

WILL PROBE WRECK OF STEAMER ROCKLAND

Officials to Find Out Reason for Collision Off the Coast.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The official investigation into the collision between the steamers City of Rockland and William Chisholm was resumed on Thursday when John D. Sloane, supervising inspector of steam vessels at this port, and Andrew J. Savage, inspector of boilers, visited the City of Rockland and talked with some of the officers. Three Lynn men and a woman from this city were passengers of the Rockland.

The official report of the accident was filed by the captain of each steamer. The City of Rockland will require practically a new bow. It may also be necessary to strengthen the entire hull, as the impact was so great that it is believed some of the planking amidships and aft may have started. Repairs will be pushed day and night in order to get the steamer back in service as soon as possible.

The company has an extra boat and it was announced yesterday that some of the trips between Boston and Bath have been cancelled. The City of Bangor, the remaining boat on the route, will make four trips weekly until the Rockland is ready for service. The Rockland is fully insured, so that the loss will fall upon the underwriters.

The steamboat inspectors will endeavor to fix the responsibility for the accident. It is estimated the damage to the City of Rockland will exceed $25,000, independent of salvage claims.

FOR YOUR FAIR SKIN, "MILADY"

There has never before been on the market, to our knowledge, any substance that would bleach the skin unless it contained injurious acids or corrosive sublimate. The enforcement of the Pure Food and Drugs Act has made the marketing of these articles illegal.

Therefore, we feel the readers of "The Herald" will welcome the news that G. E. Philbrick, our progressive druggist, has secured the agency for Portsmouth of White's Skin-bleach, a peroxide cream, composed mostly of Earth Alkaline Peroxides and which contains no acids or injurious substances of any kind.

It does its work by reason of the fact that when rubbed on the skin, previously moistened with warm water, the free and active oxygen which thereby becomes released, not only bleaches the skin but thoroughly disinfects as well. The person afflicted with discolored skin and wishing to obtain that creamy white skin so much to be desired, will find Skin-bleach a most valuable, efficient and simple preparation to use.

Ask G. E. Philbrick to satisfy you that Skin-bleach will restore "harmlessly" your normal complexion and skin. Peroxide Products Co., New York.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1912.

The Buffalo News tersely says it is fine to know that there is one American who has the recipe for the cure of every political ill. Now we may all go out and play.

The Pittsburg Gazette Times remarks we shall soon know whether Gov. Wilson has drawn upon the historical studies of former Prof. Wilson of Princeton in preparing his speech accepting the democratic nomination for President.

And so Governor Robert Perkins Bass did not condescend to favor the Grangers with his presence at Hampton Beach on Farmers' Day. Can it be that he had a foreboding that no fatted calf would be killed for the returning prodigal son?

The Philadelphia Press says the work of the state fisheries commission in seeking to stop the reckless pollution of our rivers and streams is a step in the right direction. The movement has come none too early, but it has come to stay, and effort should not be relaxed until substantial results are obtained. Al sorts of filth, acids and poisons are nonchalantly sluiced off into the waterways with the dress of our manufacturers. The refuse must be gotten rid of somehow, and no doubt the owners of mills, chemical plants, tanneries, etc., are but following the line of least resistance. All the same it makes a scummy and unsightly mess of our streams, hanging what were once pure waters into the overslop of cities churning on their dump-heaped banks. This is not to our credit nor even to our advantage. Economically it represents a gross indifference to the value of our natural resources.

The Boston Transcript says according to the almanac-makers we are now passing through the dog days. It would be possible, indeed, in any rural neighborhood, to hear it asserted that we have been under the influence of Sirius, the dog-star, for a matter of four weeks; for in the common belief this period begins July 2 and ends August 11. Some persons, however, will argue for other days, and quote authorities also, there being large latitude in the choice of dates. The helical rising of Sirius, its appearance at the same time with the sun, gives the datum day from which to reckon back and forward; but the average citizen fails to remember that the time of this rising in any one place differs from century to century, on account of the precession of the equinoxes. If we accepted all the observations that have been recorded in the course of 3,000 years, and if we strove to harmonize them in the same good faith in which they were made, we might locate dog days anywhere between July 3 and October 6, and fix the number of the days at any figure from thirty to fifty-four.

Bird's Eye Views.

Fears are entertained that the electoral college will have to provide itself with an alert and energetic committee on credentials.

His extraordinary burst of eloquence at Baltimore may cause Judge Parker to feel entitled to a respite of silence throughout the campaign.

One trait that W. J. Bryan possesses in common with Tammany is the ability to thrive in prosperity and power, regardless of defeats.

The political band wagon cannot hold its own as a popular institution in competition with the ice wagon.

It is estimated that 28,000 men will be needed to harvest the crops in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana. This should relieve the cities of their labor troubles.

Col. Roosevelt has given up his proposed tour of the West at this time. All are welcome.

line. His managers foresaw the fright reception he would receive in advocating his new party.

The reception usually accorded reporters at the steamship dock endeavoring to interview a man of financial prominence is calculated to make the scribblers feel like a self-confident, investigating committee.

A New England suffragette declares that most bachelors are cranks. This is quite true. The impossible creatures would be sure to make bad husbands and are not worth bothering about.

The Secretary Wilson resignation rumor is always willing to stand aside while some other branch of the cabinet receives attention.

Gov. Marshall's speech to the notification is expected to bring Indiana into further attention as a great literature-producing state.

Mr. Watterson will support Woodrow Wilson, but possibly with certain mental reservations.

The champions of Mr. Ismay have not gone so far as to suggest that Mr. Carnegie give him a hero medal.

The prohibitionists who met in Atlantic City showed practical wisdom in selecting a summer resort.

The Democrats are throwing almost as much mud concerning the canal regulations as Uncle Sam has in digging the big ditch.

A bill is pending which will if it becomes a law prohibit the transportation from state to state of moving picture films of prize fights.

Current Topics.

Roosevelt and the South
Mr. Roosevelt is still relying on psychology for "psychological effects." His appeals to the south and expressed hopes of support from that section are entirely of a "psychological" character. They are a feature of his program of publicity, and not an evidence of good faith. Just as the fake contests in the south were instituted to deceive voters elsewhere, and did in some measure accomplish that end, the claims now made of Roosevelt sentiment in that section are intended to serve the interests of the bull moose party north, east and west.

This is the English of the latest attempted fake: "Boys, we've got 'em. Both democrats and republicans are coming over to us by thousands. The solid south is going to pieces. John M. Parker will deliver Louisiana, and we have assurances that Mississippi is on the way. Work hard. Hope 'em. Hope ever."

Not. Nothing but rot. Mr. Parker does not control six votes in Louisiana. He does not control even the bears in when Mr. Roosevelt visited the south as a mighty hunter on Mr. Parker's invitation and searched the jungles far and wide, he failed to get a single paw.

As for Mississippi, who is it quizzing Mr. Roosevelt and his too credulous chairman? The Bayou state has never repudiated Leroy Percy and cannot. Mr. Vardaman's promise was to inaugurate, if elected, a movement for the repeal of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution. When he takes his seat in the Senate, which will be in March, the thundering is to begin. Where is the hope for Mr. Roosevelt in Mississippi? Not a ray appears to any person familiar with the situation, and free to discuss it as it exists.

The south, of course, will vote for Mr. Wilson. Even Louisiana, whose sugar industry is being saved by the republicans in Congress and Mr. Taft in the White House, will support the Baltimore ticket.

And more still. The south, with no need of making a campaign at home, will raise a campaign fund for use in the debatable states. Only yesterday, at Seagirt, Mr. Ellison of Richmond assured Mr. Wilson that Virginia, the latter's native state, would "do more than her share toward financing the democratic campaign."

The south is sentimental about some things, but very practical about others. Mr. Roosevelt has friends down there, and Mr. Taft on personal grounds is very popular. But neither has the slightest political hold on that section, and never will have. Mr. Roosevelt is playing the south for "psychological effects" only.—Washington Star.

RAILROAD NOTES

Up to date the officials of the Boston & Maine have not appointed a trainmaster of the Portland division to succeed Augustus Colby, who resigned on Thursday. The appointment of John L. Shaw, freight trainmaster, was not made on Thursday as was expected and there is a hold up. Frank Barker, assistant trainmaster, is acting till a permanent man is selected.

The wrecking train was on the Concord wharf today making repairs to a damaged car.

A work train is distributing ties on the Portland division between this city and Oak Hill.

In its report of police court proceedings in St. Albans, Vt., Clyde Haskell of Concord, N. H., was arraigned on a charge of riding on a Central Vermont railway train from Montreal to that city and not paying his fare. He was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for the offense.

Boy Scouts Risk Their Lives In Cleaning Up the Tenement Districts of New York.

New York recently indulged in a week's campaign to get the people living in the tenements of the city interested in the cleaning up of streets, sidewalks, areaways and homes. The movement began with the organized charities. Special emphasis was put on the value of cleaning up for the sake of the children of the tenements. Among the first to respond with hearty co-operation were the boy scouts, who did yeoman service in helping to make tenement buildings and flats clean and sanitary and in many instances took great personal risks.

THE BAND WAGON

The old band wagon hits a pace it never knew of yore. It hurries on from place to place, amidst a terrific roar, with sundry cans of gasoline. To help it pull the load, occasionally one is seen to flare up and explode.

So set the belt a-ringing, and sound the horn so shrill. The old band wagon's swinging, and she's coasting down a hill!

Combustion's something fierce below. We're sitting on the lid. As we rush on we'd like to know just when she's going to skid. The radiator starts to boil. The steering gear is loose; if she bounces down with all her toil, we'll hitch her to a moose.

No longer is she freighted with music sweetly keyed. The old band wagon's galloped for her biggest burst of speed. —Exchange.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET

BOSTON, August 2, 1912.—(Wanted)—Corn fed blonde, between 17 and 27, between five feet and five feet nine inches tall, weighing from 110 to 140 pounds, with a loving disposition. She must wear no rats, "doo-dads," puffs, curls or paint. If she will step up and make herself known to Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, the Hub's leading matrimonial agent he will refer her to a well known young man in Cambridge, with the best of recommendations, who having arrived at the mature age of 23 desires to find unto himself a wife of these qualifications. He is distinctly the fustiest of the Mayor's many applicants for help in the search for a suitable helpmate. But apparently he would make an excellent husband for the right corn fed girl if she can be found. Incidentally she must be a good cook and housekeeper. Line up, New England Girls.

A park propaganda, which has been definitely organized in Boston, is interesting not only the local residents but many people of nearby New England who are at last awakening to the fact that the Hub has things to show which vie with attractions of New York, Washington and the various European capitals in interest. Something of this doctrine has been preached before as regards the historic attractions, and so effectively that strangers from outside New England in the summer season regularly crowd the Boston Elevated Company's sight seeing trolley car that twice a day leaves Park Square for a round up of the well known places. The bigness, however, of some of the new attractions that have been created in and near Boston in the past two decades has only begun to impress itself upon the local imagination. The parks in particular have grown faster than the people's capacity for understanding and appreciating their usefulness. Nearly two million dollars have been expended on a park system that completely encircles and penetrates the city, most of whose parks are reached on a five-cent carfare. Such a collection of photographs as was recently exhibited by the Park Commission at the Boston Public Library proves that in scenic loveliness nothing finer could have been built up anywhere. Yet it remains true that hundreds of thousands of people living within easy distance of Boston have never visited the Middlesex Fells, with their gleaming lakes and picturesque wooded heights; have never witnessed America's most remarkable flotilla of pleasure yachts and congregation of bathers at Marine Park; have never climbed Great Blue Hill, the sightliest eminence in eastern Massachusetts and the highest point of land along the Atlantic coast between Maine and Mexico. To many New Englanders a visit to Boston in summer means merely a run to Revere Beach or Nantasket—all well enough in its way, but that fails to give an inkling of the whole story of beautiful Boston, to grasp which many visits are needed.

Meantime the new birds of Franklin park are beginning to make that surpassingly charming and very accessible park in the Roxbury district of Boston come back with a popularity grafting to those who have wondered at its comparative neglect in recent years. The old birds, of course are still there, the native ones that sing unconfinely in the tree tops on a pleasant summer afternoon.

These are there, to be sighted and studied by the scientist, though the average person has too little knowledge and ornithological enthusiasm to be greatly excited about them. The rare feathered specimens, however, which have been let loose in the world's biggest flying cage in the recently designed Franklin Park zoological garden will justify the trip from another city. Long before the park authorities were ready to make a public exhibition they had received from Col. John S. Thayer of Lancaster and other public spirited citizens a large number of odd looking birds which will henceforth delight all children and all adults who enjoy natural curiosities. Already in the wired enclosure, which is nearly 200 feet long and high enough to clear several full grown trees, there deport themselves the very uncommon eurk cranes from Egypt, huge birds of a slate color, standing nearly six feet tall; a flock of white African harlequins with curved bills and wings of a delicate pink color, tipped with black beneath; black swans from Germany; black peacocks from China; black Australian wild geese and Florida pelicans. Everybody likes to watch the happenings of a flying cage. It consequently was not strange that on July 26 when the first birds were unloosed in the cage by Curator Benson hundreds of eager-eyed youngsters cheered as each box was opened and its flying or wading occupants consigned to the their new home. As the report of their pleasure spreads one of the first requests of every New England young person taken into Boston by a parent or grandparent for shopping or an outing will be to go out to Franklin Park and see the birds.

This bill was headed, viz.: Monitor. In account with the monitor of the High School for the ending—1837.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Editor Herald:—It takes very much as if the Board of Public Works is inviting a suit for damages against the city.

Within a day or two an observant citizen saw a lady rider lift a foot or more from the seat in an automobile, as it passed over one of the many defective and dangerous places in the asphalt on Market Square. The agility of the young lady alone saved her from being thrown out on to the pavement. A few dollars now spent may save the payment for damage amounting to thousands. Just keep this hint in mind, ye who have the responsibility. Market Square is not alone in its danger spots.

Governor Foss Honors Papers in the Elpert Case.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts has honored the extradition papers in the case of Henry Elpert of Wintrop, Mass., wanted here by the authorities on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. The case grew out of a deal with the Rockingham County Light and Power Company on the sale of old copper and electric fans. Elpert was recently arraigned in Boston and held under bonds to await the hearing of the Portsmouth parties before the attorney general of Massachusetts which took place on Tuesday at Boston. The state police of Massachusetts will turn Elpert over to Sheriff Spinnery on Saturday.

ed to Becker four times.

This legal importance of Hart's visit, Mr. Whitman believes, is that Becker failed in his duty in not arresting Rose when it was published broadcast the next day that he was wanted by the police.

It was not until Hart was haled before Judge Mahonee "as a continuant witness" that he would admit before the Grand Jury that he had gone to see Rose, basing his refusal on the ground that he was acting for his client, Becker. Hart, it was learned, testified that he had advised Rose to give him self up after consulting with another lawyer.

According to Rose's story, Hart told him that if he did not make the affidavit, Becker would not protect him.

Hart was before the Grand Jury for more than an hour. When he came out he made a long statement saying that he had answered all the questions put to him, and admitting that he had procured from Rose the affidavit after the Rosenthal murder and before Rose's arrest.

At the time he prepared the affidavit, he said, he had no idea that Rose had any connection with that murder, but repudiated Rosenthal's charge that he and Lieut. Becker were partners in a gambling house venture.

While Dist. Atty. Whitman believes that as a result of his investigation into the murder of Rosenthal he has obtained evidence pointing strongly to the existence of a well organized system of police graft, he announced tonight that this phase of the investigation would be subordinated until he had convicted the murderers of the gambler and all who were involved in the plot to kill him.

"Murder," said Mr. Whitman, tonight, "is a graver crime than the levy of blackmail by the police. I decline to be diverted by any demand for a general investigation of the police department and police grafting until these murderers have been brought to justice. I am endeavoring to prosecute to conviction all the murderers. It is the duty of the 13,400 policemen of this city to find them, they should have been arrested at the scene of the crime. The fact that they are still at large is a very serious reflection upon conditions in the police department."

The prosecutor took pains to add, however, that the investigation into the graft system was a secondary consideration only temporarily, and said that he had delegated Asst. Dist. Atty. Moss to carry it on.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Moss, to whom has been delegated the graft end of the police investigation, expects to visit in his cell tomorrow Jack Rose, self-accused graft collector for Lieut. Becker, and will go over with him again his sworn statement that Becker had told him that the annual blackmail levied by police upon gambling houses and other illegal resorts amounted to $2,400,000.

Mr. Moss expects to get from Rose and also from "Bridge" Webster, the man who confessed to paying the murderers of Rosenthal for their work, a list of gamblers who paid tribute and also a list of graft collectors. These will all be summoned before the Grand Jury, and from them it is hoped to gain clues which will indicate how high up the graft went and how it was distributed.

PERFECT HEALTH IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE

City Life Is Responsible

Human Machine Will Not Run True and Strong, Day After Day, Under the Constant Strain.

In a recent interview one of the physicians who are introducing the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" to the American public, had this to say:

"The manner of living in the larger cities of the United States is such that perfect health is almost impossible; the human machine will not run true and strong day after day with its vitality continually being sapped by the constant nervous strain, irregular hours, hastily eaten food, the wear and tear and rush of city life, are largely responsible for the immense amount of dull, listless, half-sick people of the present generation. Debility of a 'run down' condition as it is called, is everywhere. Half the people I see in street cars, restaurants, theatres or on the street, are unmistakably in a debilitated condition, with their nerves in such a state that they either wish to lie down and rest or rush after some excitement."

"Any one who has met a constant stream of nervous debilitated people as I have since I began my present work, can tell a man or woman in this condition at a glance. I wish to emphatically state that the number of debilitated people in the larger American cities is appalling. "Tona Vita," the medicine I am helping to introduce, is to combat this condition. I believe it to be the best preparation ever before sold to the public, in that it is immediately effective in cases of debility and other troubles that go hand in hand with this disease."

You can not begin to enjoy life or meet with much success if you are tired all the time, have little ambition, and feel continually depressed in mind and body. Every half-sick, worn-out man or woman, owes it to themselves and their family, to try "Tona Vita." If the tonic does not make life more worth living, and brings back the healthy, energetic spirit, that is now lacking, the price is refunded. Boardman & Norton, Portsmouth, also for Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the purest and best family laxative on the market. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative will not injure the most delicate constitution. FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND LIVE STOCK

The large barn of the Ipswich post office was struck by lightning on Thursday and was destroyed by the fire which followed. As the result of the fire 12 cows, two bulls and one horse were burned to death in the structure and a large amount of grain and farming implements were lost.

The loss was estimated at $7000. As the post office is located about two miles from the town, the fire department arrived too late to do effective work. There was also no water near the farm available for the use of the firemen. The fire spread to an adjoining shed, burning several wagons and farming implements. Forty tons of hay were also destroyed by the flames and 10 tons of ensilage stored in the shed near the barn.

TAXI CISTS HANSOM

London-Museum Places Old Vehicle on Exhibition.

Thousands of Modern Cars Now in Service and Few of the Horse-Drawn Fare Carriers—Big Change in Last 7 Years.

London.—The new London museum has shown its enterprise by adding a hansom cab to its collection, although there are at least four hundred of these vehicles still in use on the London streets. But the last maker of Hansoms closed his doors three years ago, and the museum authorities are no doubt anticipating its rapid extinction.

In 1905 motor taxicabs first appeared on the streets under the humble title of "Clarences-Mechanical Power," there being 19 of them as compared with about 7,000 Hansoms. In 1910 the Hansoms had declined to 2,003, while the taxicabs had risen to 5,397.

The exact figures for today have not been compiled, but it is safe to estimate that there are at least 11,000 taxicabs to 400 Hansoms, intermittently employed. The refusal of the hansom drivers to accept the taximeter accelerated their end, for if they had accepted it they might have made a longer fight, as the Paris cabs are doing.

Decoratively, the London streets have lost by the passing of the hansom, for the tall, delicately poised carriage, shiny black, with the driver commanding cab and horse from his lofty seat and with the slender whip rising above all, was an outstanding picture of London traffic.

Buckinghamshire is planning to raise, on June 27, in the Vale of Aylesbury, a memorial to her favorite son, John Hampden, who, according to Macaulay, would have been the George Washington of his country if he had survived the terrible wounds which he received in a fight with Prince Rupert's cavalry in Chalgrove.

Posterity has placed Hampden first among the parliamentary party which opposed Charles I., and he began the fight in parliament as a representative of Buckinghamshire.

Some curious old documents offered for sale recently by a London dealer prove clearly that the wild fowl which occupy the lakes in the London parks were in occupancy there in the reign of James I.

One document is Lord Rochester's bill of charges "for keeping the fowl and beasts at the St. James Park and Gardens for April, May and June 1611."

It is signed by the Earl of Salisbury. Another document is for the "charges layed out on St. James park and the spring garden for keeping and feeding his Majesty's forrayne bestes and fowle there 1611-12," and this is signed by Sir Julius Caesar.

FELL INTO PREHISTORIC HUT

New Mexican Shepherd Accidentally Finds Archaeological Treasure.

Santa Fe, N. M.—While standing on the top of one of many mounds near Magdalena, in the hilly country of Socorro, Urulio Borrego, a shepherd sank knee deep in the soft earth plunged on through the crust of the ground, fell through space for twenty feet, and landed on a stone floor. He has discovered one of the apartments of a communal dwelling believed to be centuries old.

Borrego, aided by light which came in at the opening he had made in falling, explored the room, which contained several skeletons, charred red earth, and many pieces of pottery, samples of which he took with him to Magdalena as confirmation of his story. Such pottery has sold for $500 a piece whenever it has been found.

KILLS SNAKE IN PULPIT

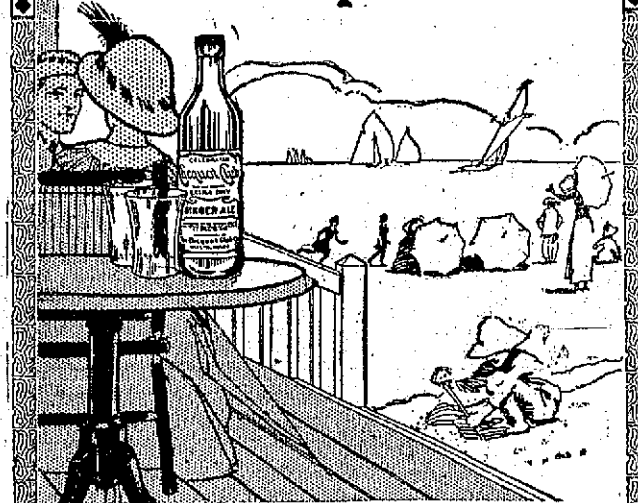

"Tenderfoot" Pastor Shows Nerve While Preaching at Greeley, Colo.

Greeley, Colo.—Rev. John Bentley, an invalid "tenderfoot," graduate of an eastern theological college, may have a congregation any time his health permits him to preach here because of his nerve. Addressing a handful of people in the little adobe schoolhouse, ten miles from here, he paused suddenly at sight of a rattlesnake that had joined his congregation and nestled at his feet. He stooped quickly, grabbed the reptile back of the neck, carried it out of the schoolhouse and stamped it to death. Returning, he dropped the subject of his sermon and, symbolizing the snake as sin, held his congregation for an hour. The next night the congregation was too large for the schoolhouse.

OVERHEARD ON THE STREET

The Sort of Conversation That Occurs Between Two Dear Friends of the Feminine Persuasion.

The two dear, dear friends had not met in a long time, and when they at last encountered each other on the avenue they both began to talk simultaneously, as follows:

First Lady—How perfectly jolly to see you again! It seems ages since we met. But after all it's not so strange, because, you know, dear, I've been travelling all winter. We spent December in Italy, and about the first of January we went over to Egypt, where we passed two perfectly delightful months, going to the Riviera in March. We came back to America about April 10th, and went immediately down to Aiken, where George got in a lot of golf, and I just revelled in the horseback riding. Later on we came north again, and ever since I have been resting up at mother's up in the Berkshires. April is a trifle early for that part of the world, but everything was so quiet, and I was so tired from the constant travel, that it was refreshing to the last degree up there.

Second Lady—Why, you dear thing! I haven't seen you for a month of Sundays—but that wasn't your fault. I have had such a miserable winter—have hardly been out of the house a minute. I very foolishly managed to catch the whooping-cough from Tommy shortly after Christmas, and after I got through with that the baby came down with the measles, and again I was laid up, catching that infantile disease myself, with the result that when March came along and I was able to go out I was so run down that I caught a terrible cold, which developed into something very like pneumonia, and until a week ago last Thursday I spent most of my time in the hands of two doctors and a trained nurse.

(Pause for a long breath.)
First Lady. (resuming)—And how have you been all winter?
Second Lady (simultaneously resuming)—And where have you been all this time—wintering in town?—Herald's Weekly.

Origin of "Hoosier."

When the Indiana Society of Chicago held its annual outing and feed June 1, Charles Healy told a new version of how the term "Hoosier" came to be applied to Indianans.

"An old river pilot gave me the story," said Mr. Healy, "and it sounds pretty reasonable. In the early days when Indiana was only sparsely settled along the southern border, most of the trading was done in the Kentucky towns just across the river. Naturally, when the settlers went to town they cut up all sorts of capers and one of the new stunts in those days was for a man to jump up in the air and try to kick his heels together twice before touching the ground.

"One day a crowd of Indiana settlers arrived in town, and some one of them bet that a member of the Indiana crowd couldn't kick his heels together twice and say 'Hoosier' two times before coming down. He performed the stunt all right, with the exception of saying 'Hoosier.' In his excitement he mispronounced the word and said 'Hoosler, Hoosler. That's how the famous nickname originated, according to the river pilot and from that time on all Indiana people were called 'Hoosiers.'"

Tips as Strike Breakers.

Not a few men who are accustomed to give liberal tips were heard to express themselves bitterly on the subject of the waiters' strike.

One of the managers at the Waldorf was talking yesterday about hearing one of the best-known brokers in New York, known as one of the most generous tipsters about the hotel, declare emphatically that he had never again to tip a waiter who had struck. Some doubt was expressed, and the manager rushed away and brought up the broker.

"Yes, I said it," the latter agreed "and, furthermore, I mean it. In the course of the last twenty years I have given away thousands of dollars in tips to waiters—never less than a quarter, and sometimes as much as $4 at a time. Yet what did it count for me to spend a lot of money on men just for bringing me a few plates of food? Hereafter I shall ask every man who serves me whether he was a striker. If he was, I shall not give him a cent, and I can tell you I have talked with hundreds who feel just the same as I!"—New York Sun.

Babism.

Babism was founded in Persia about 1840, by Sayid Mirza Ali. He took the name of Beh-ed-din (the gate of the faith), whence he became known as the "Bab," and his disciples as the "Babis." The Bab, who during his life maintained the highest reputation for purity and gentleness of character, was murdered at Tabriz, July 8, 1850. It will be impossible to give here anything like an intelligent account of the teachings of Babism. Intensely mystical, it takes an Oriental of the Orientals to even approximately understand it, or to even half-way explain it. The Babis have teachers in this country, and you might consult them if you have a desire to know what the cult is.

MISSING AUDITOR FOUND AT ROCHESTER

Albert K. Thompson, one of the town auditors of Marblehead, missing from his home in that town since Sunday, has been found in Rochester, N. H., in a dazed condition. He left his home on Sunday telling his wife and three children that he was going fishing, and took with him his fishing tackle.

Thompson Chief of Police Williams of Marblehead received word from Chief Marshal Young of the Rochester police that Thompson was safe in the New Hampshire city, and that he seemed in a dazed condition, apparently not knowing where he was going. He had plenty of money with him and did not seem to be suffering in any way.

OLD CONVICT SHIP

British Hulk Success Used to Confine Prisoners.

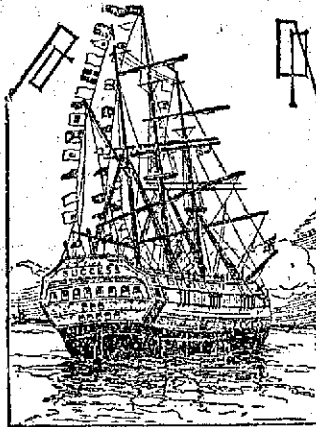

Crude Old Craft Was Jail During Mad Rush That Followed the Discovery of Australian Gold Fields—Is on Way to America.

Boston.—The liner Laconia on her last arrival at the port of Boston reported exchanging wireless messages with the British convict hulk Success. This indicates that what has been termed "the most remarkable ship that has visited England since the days of the slave trade" is bound for American ports, presumably Boston or New York, on an exhibition cruise similar to that made in British waters during the past sixteen years.

The Success sailed from Australia on its long exhibition cruise in 1896. She has dropped anchor at practically every port of England. The vessel itself is a rare curiosity, with a strange, action-like history, and contains a collection of relics of the bushranging days of Australia. At each port attendants explain the exhibits and descriptive lectures are given on the various phases of convict life.

The history of the Success as a convict ship dates back to the mad rush in search of wealth that followed the discovery of the Australian goldfields in 1851. Port Williamstown, nine miles distant from Melbourne, was filled with every variety of craft bearing immigrants. One day, looming above all other ships, came a quaint, old full-rigged vessel, with apple sides, broad bulging bows, standing high out of the water, and the name "Success" displayed the full width of her square stern, over the windows and below the taffrail. She proved to be a "country-built" East Indiaman. She dropped anchor amidst the army of white wings which then dotted the harbor.

In the confusion and excitement that resulted from the sudden influx of immigration, murder and crime ran riot. Robbery under arms was reported every few days, and it seemed Convict Ship Success.

Impossible for the authorities to cope with the number of felons and miscreants who infested the district.

At last the suggestion was made that some of the vessels then lying at anchor in the bay, deserted by captains and crews, who had all joined in the headlong rush for the "diggings," should be utilized as prison hulks.

Five full-rigged vessels, among them the Success, were selected. Of these "yellow frigates," as they were called, the Success was officially regarded as the flagship of the felon fleet. She was known as the awful "dark cell ship," and between her decks were lodged a company of close-cropped villains, the very scum of all the lawless men concentrated in that district.

The Success was a convict ship until 1857, when the terrible cruelties of the system aroused the English people to action. She was removed from Williamstown to Sandridge in 1857 and from 1860 to 1868 was used as "woman's prison." The following year the ship was used as a sort of reformatory for boys.

Late in 1890 the Success first appeared before the public as a ship on show. Her general structure is well worthy of description.

The ship's external appearance is particularly striking in these days of ocean greyhounds. Her square-cut stern and quarter galleries stamp her at once with the hall-mark of antiquity, and her bluff bow shows that she could never have distinguished herself for a high rate of speed.

Her tonnage may be taken at 530 tons. She is 135 feet in length, about 25 feet beam, copper fastened, and "tre-nailed" throughout. Her solid sides are two feet six inches in thickness at the bilge, so that prisoners from within recoiled from the hopeless task of penetrating her walls.

The Perfect Toilet

Region That Supplied Solomon With Jewels.

Relics of an Ancient Civilization on the Edge of the Sahara, in West Africa, Are Brought Back by Dr. Leo Frobenius.

Berlin.—"Ophir," the land of gold and precious stones of Queen Sheba of King Solomon's time is believed to have been discovered by Dr. Leo Frobenius, the German explorer and scholar, who has returned to Berlin from a two years' exploration trip to West Africa. "Ophir," according to Doctor Frobenius, is, or rather, was, not located in Rhodesia in South Africa, where explorers heretofore have placed it, but in West Africa at the lower edge of the Sahara desert and in the vicinity of the Niger river. As proof of his belief that he has discovered the land from which King Solomon obtained the vast amount of gold and jewels for his palaces for himself and his 600 wives, the German explorer brought 300 boxes filled with ceramics, bronzes, articles of gold and silver, all of which he dug from ruins of cities whose history is lost in the maze of time.

Doctor Frobenius says his explorations and his many "finds" show that the country and its people at one time enjoyed the very highest degree of civilization of its time. Bronze ceramics and utensils show that a high degree of art and skill abounded. The country, said Doctor Frobenius, is exceedingly rich in gold and other valuable minerals. The natives, tribes of negroes, have made no attempt to mine, said the explorer, because of their religion, which forbids it, but fond as they are of gold ornaments, have been deterred by the superstitious fear of "evil spirits" of ancient times, which they believe guard the treasures. Doctor Frobenius is now engaged in giving the details of his discoveries in a book which he is writing.

WELL KNOWN FIRE DOG DIES

Rex Was a Bulldog and a Hero of the Department—Is Buried With Honor.

New York.—Rex, fireman, life savior and as faithful to duty as any member of the department, was crushed to death recently while answering an alarm from the quarters of engine company No. 17.

Rex was only a dog and he was not pretty dog, either. He was a bull, with heavy jaws and legs which spoke strength and not beauty, but for four years he had guarded the firehouse night and day when he was not on duty at some blaze or sniffing about in search of fire.

There is a new horse on duty in No. 17 house. He is a big roan, frantically and difficult to handle. The alarm sounded. The roan took his place by his mate and dashed out of the house. The driver managed him with difficulty, but Rex ran along beside him barking when time came to turn corners and endeavoring to show the new horse the way to answer an alarm.

Suddenly there came a corner to turn. The roan was slow in answering to the reins. Then he hurled his body to one side, dragging the engine after him, and the wheels of the heavy vehicle passed over the body of the faithful dog.

The firemen buried Rex with all the honors due a hero.

TO ABOLISH STRAIT-JACKETS

California Prison Warden Also Indicates Light Will Be Put Into the Cells.

Sacramento, Cal.—"The strait-jackets will be abolished, though the unruly will be punished," announced James A. Johnston, the new warden of Folsom prison. His advent into office was greeted with a riotous demonstration by about 400 of the 1,200 convicts. When Warden Johnston was making an inspection of the prison yards he received word that "Jake" Oppenheimer, twice a murderer, wished to speak to him and stipulated that the conversation should be held in his cell, "with the door closed." Without hesitation the new warden entered the cell.

"Do you see anything?" Oppenheimer asked.

The warden's eyes tried to penetrate the gloom.

"No, Jake," he said, "I don't see anything."

"Well," the convict cried, "that's why I wanted you here. When they close the doors on us fellows in the condemned cells we're in the dark. Is that a square deal?"

The warden told him that when his reform plans went into effect the condemned men would not be overlooked.

CHILD RESCUED FROM WELL

Woman and Three California Children Who Kept Their Heads Were Heroic.

Anaheim, Cal.—The three-year-old girl who clung to a board in the well without fuss, coolly awaiting rescue; the mother who leaped unhesitatingly into the well, without knowledge of its depth, to aid her child; the little five-year-old girl who ran three-quarters of a mile for help—the boy who promptly rode to the well, worked his wits and quickly improvised a way for the rescue of the mother and child—each of the four are entitled to awards for heroism.

This was enacted at the Shannon Kincaid ranch on the Santiago Canyon road. M. S. Ingram took his family to the ranch for the afternoon.

Answering the appeals of the children for a romp on the hillside, Mrs. Ingram after a short visit with her friend, Mrs. Kincaid, went out with the little ones. Gathering around an old well covered with boards, the children were busily engaged in playing when one of them, worked loose a timber on the well. Little Laona Ingram, aged three years, was standing on one end of the timber and her weight was sufficient to up-end it into the well. The child went down with it.

Mrs. Ingram, some distance away, witnessed the accident, ran to the well and leaped in after the child. She landed in the water fourteen feet below the surface of the ground and found the little girl clinging to the timber which had become lodged between the walls of the well at the top of the water. The mother put one arm around the child and the other arm around the timber and in this manner held on until rescued.

LOCKED IN MORGAN OFFICE

Robert Bacon and J. P. Morgan, Jr. Pry Way Out of Room With Knives.

New York.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., and Robert Bacon, former ambassador to France, were prisoners for 20 minutes in the new quarters of J. Pierpont Morgan, in the Bankers' Trust building.

The two went up to inspect the new quarters, which are on the thirty-first floor, just before noon. A single door leads from the main corridor into the Morgan private suite, and Mr. Morgan slammed it without noticing that there was no knob on the inside.

When an inspection was completed the two men found themselves locked in. No telephones have as yet been installed. Mr. Morgan went to work with his pocket knife to turn the screws that hold the lock on the door. When he had loosened two of the screws he had broken all of the blades. Then the former ambassador to France set to work and loosened the remaining screws with scarcely less damage to his knife. They took off the lock, drew the bolt and were free.

NO MORE SCHOOL SHOOTING

Lad Must Be Good or Court Will Call Up Case for Using Revolver on Clerk.

Wilmington, Del.—James Powell, thirteen years old, charged with shooting George Fox, clerk of the Sumner Bridge school district, recently, was arraigned before general sessions court for assault, but the case was retired. The shooting took place in the school building, when Fox attempted to eject the boy after he had refused to obey the teacher.

Deputy Attorney General Wolcott objected to Powell being paroled. He said there has been much violence in the district and that only one boy had been shot and killed as a result of this lawlessness. He agreed to have the case retired, pending Powell's good behavior, as Miss Cann, the school teacher, said.

ANOTHER ROBBERY

Sneak Thief Enters Residence of D. H. McIntosh Securing Three Rings

The sneak thief is still with us and doing business regardless of the efforts of the police to check the epidemic of robberies.

Another haul was made at the home of D. H. McIntosh on Middle street on Thursday. The job was done in daylight, about three o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. McIntosh and a relative were in the yard at the time working in the garden and did not discover the robbery for an hour after. The thief entered the front door while the women were in the yard and went direct to Mrs. McIntosh's chamber, where he helped himself to jewelry, including three rings and other articles.

Nobody in the neighborhood saw anybody about the house or on the street in that section who looked suspicious and this job, like the others, gives the police nothing to work on. It now looks like a change of working hours for the crooks. When the police are after them at night they do their work by day. The West End section was well covered with police on Thursday night but no arrests were made in that section.
